To all my patients,

As some of you know, I had to go on an unexpected medical leave mid-August 2025. Obviously, this was not planned. As my recovery has continued, I had to make the difficult decision of not returning to Bluebird Medical. My last day of association with Bluebird Medical will be November 30th, 2025.

I have been fortunate to have Dr. Alisha Gray take on a small portion my panel of patients. We have had an excellent working relationship for the last three years, and I know she will provide excellent medical care. For the majority of my patients, Dr. Samuel Ajagbonna has agreed to take over your care. I hope this will make the transition as seamless as possible.

For those of you who choose to seek alternative care, the office will transfer your medical records to the provider of your choice.

I would like to personally thank you all for allowing me to be part of your lives. I have considered it a privilege to have known all of you.

I have delivered many babies, and it was a joy to see them grow up and become wonderful people. There have been many medical challenges for some of you, and I have been inspired by the grace with which you have handled these issues. Even when some were faced with tragedy, I was honoured to be part of those difficult journeys.

I have been inspired by all of you. The connections I have made with you all will certainly be missed, but I will keep them in my heart forever.

I hope you know how difficult it has been for me to leave medicine after 37 years. I will thoroughly miss you all. I hope to see some of you in Kelowna, as I continue my recovery. I wish you and your families the best of health in the future.

Sincerely,
Dr. Elizabeth Perri
